

Press Release

May 2007

Footy fever at Fuel Parts UK

Company organises charity football match to raise money for local hospice charity

Fuel Parts UK, a leading manufacturer and supplier of fuel and emissions components, recently raised £488 for a local hospice after taking on staff from Unipart and Express Factors in Redditch in a charity football match.

The event was organised by FPUK warehouseman Simon Godwin and a member of the Unipart team. The sole beneficiary of the eleven-a-side match was Primrose Hospice in Bromsgrove – situated close to the FPUK headquarters in the town.

After a hard-fought game, watched by a crowd of 30 spectators, the Unipart and Express Factors team walked out 4-2 winners.

Fuel Parts UK operations director, Andy West, said: "We deal with Unipart and Express Factors daily through our aftermarket business but I think it's especially impressive that we can come together outside of work and organise a charity football match to raise money for such a good cause."