Fuel Parts range grows with new product additions

Fuel Parts UK, a leading aftermarket supplier of fuel systems and emission parts, has introduced a host of new product additions to its range.

Fuel Parts develops its product ranges on a monthly basis and works to introduce the latest OE part numbers into the aftermarket as soon as possible.

More than 30 new references have been launched across a variety of product groups including: ABS wheel speed sensors, catalytic convertors, centre pipes, coil packs, engine management, front pipes, fuel pumps and lambda sensors.

The new parts and their applications, as well as the reason for the introduction of the new reference and prices can be found on the newly developed Fuel Parts website www.fpuk.co.uk.

Also available to download is technical information and fitting instructions.
